DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

Claim 1 is objected to because of the following informalities: Line 2, "a cylinder" should be --the cylinder--. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 11, 13, and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Jaske (4281588).

Jaske discloses a fluid actuator having a cylinder (12, 14), a pair of pistons (56) disposed slidably in the cylinder, a pressure-inspecting chamber (56) enclosed by inside lateral faces of the pair of pistons opposed to each other and inner peripheral face of the cylinder, an output shaft (24) disposed in the pressure-inspecting chamber and provided with a pinion (66), a piston rod (62) provided with rack teeth (64) to be meshed with the pinion, the piston rod having opposite ends thereof connected to the inside lateral faces of the pair of pistons to transform motion of the pair of pistons into a rotary drive of the output shaft, and a pressure-detecting hole (98) formed in the cylinder for establishing communication between the pressure-inspection chamber and an exterior. Wherein a center line of the pair of pistons and a pitch line of the rack teeth are maintained in conformity, and the is a combined operation actuator provided with a pressure feeding and releasing chamber enclosed with outside lateral faces of the pair of pistons, the inner peripheral face of the cylinder and end covers disposed one each at opposite ends of the cylinder.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 15 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Jaske (4281588) in view of Himeno et al (4882977).

Jaske discloses a fluid actuator as described above with respect to claim 11, but does not teach that the actuator is single acting having a pressure chamber and a spring chamber.

Himeno et al discloses a single acting rotary actuator having a spring chamber including spring (31) between one piston (2a) and an end cover (~26). (Figs. 6 and 7).

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the system of Jaske by making it single acting having a pressure feeding and releasing chamber enclosed with an outside lateral face of one of the pair of pistons, the inner peripheral face of the cylinder and one of end covers disposed one each at opposite ends of the cylinder, and a spring attached to an outside lateral face of the other of the pair of pistons and contained in a spring case disposed in the other of the end covers as taught by Himeno et al for the purpose of providing one way actuation with automatic return.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 12 and 16 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Prior Art

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. U.S. Patents 6776083, 5427012, 5207111, 5014598, 4457210, and 1834607 each discloses a fluid driven rotary actuator.
